Dates for the Corn Show

Dates have been fixed for the corn show being planned by the Lethbridge board of trade the coming autumn. These dates will be Nov. 17 and 18. Corn has come to be a substantial crop in southern Alberta.

Pure Seed Oats Available

The provincial government co-operative seed plant at Edmonton has a considerable quantity of registered seed oats available at prices now ranging from 75 cents to $1.00 a bushel. It is possible that these prices may go higher, and farmers in Alberta are urged to make their applications for seed oats at once, as a large number of enquiries for these oats is being received from outside the province, and the government is anxious that Alberta farmers have the first opportunity of securing them.

New Statistics Book

A new booklet has been issued by the publicity branch of the department of agriculture and in other lines since its inception in 1905.

Mineral Production in Alberta

Mineral production in Alberta totalled in value $22,749,662, in the year 1924, according to the preliminary report on mineral production issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This is a decrease from the production of the previous year, accounted for chiefly by the coal strike during the early part of the year. Alberta in 1924 dropped to fourth place in mineral production in the provinces, having previously held the third place. The figures on value of mineral production in the province for the past three years are as follows:

1922	-	$27,872,136
1923	-	31,287,536
1924	-	22,749,662

The coal production for the year was valued at $19,101,209 compared with $29,018,303 in 1923. Alberta runs a very close second to Ontario in the production of natural gas, Alberta's production in 1924 having been 7,100,000 thousand cubic feet, while Ontario's production was 7,422,512 thousand cubic feet. These two provinces produce almost the entire Canadian production of natural gas.

Alberta's production of lime in 1924 was valued at $19,317 in 1924. Since the year 1914, a total of 531 tons of tar sands have been taken out of the deposits near McMurray for experimental purposes. The total importation of asphalt into Canada was 18,070 tons in 1924.

AT LAST This Is Something Like It.

What a Cast! What a Story! Bebe Daniels, Ernest Torrence, Noah Berry and Lloyd Hughes, featured in the Zane Grey Paramount production, "The Heritage of the Desert," which ought to pack Havens Hall, on Thursday evening, April 9th, commencing at 8.30 p.m. James Mason, Richard R. Neill and Leonard Clapham play in support. So much for the cast.

Now to the Story:

A tale of the West at its wildest and wooliest. There's thrills, comedy, a pleasing love theme and big scenes throughout. With the killing of Snap, the dissolute son of August Naab of "The Oasis" ranch, the long kindling feud between cattlemen and rustlers breaks into flame. It's a battle to the death—with Navajo Indians collecting scalps for the ranchers. The town of White Sage is but a thing of the past—Holderness and his reign of terror are but memories—great things have started in the west—the ambitions are about to be realized. The irrigation waters, the life-blood of the desert, on "The Oasis" have been saved—fertility is about to come to the land. But why go on? Zane Grey tells it all only he can—he knows the West, and you will too, after seeing "The Heritage of the Desert."

A Romance of the Spanish Main CAPTAIN BLOOD by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini
"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Viograph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS

Peter Blood, a young Irish physician, is sent to the Barbadoes as a slave under orders of King James. He is bought by Colonel Blount, the military commander, and falls in love with Arabella, the niece of the colonel. Spanish buccaniers bombard the city and sack it. Blood saves Arabella and Mary Trull. He captures the ship and sails for Tortuga, the rendezvous of buccaniers of the Spanish Main. There Captain Blood, tormented by his fear that he will never see Arabella again and importuned by his comrades, takes command of a pirate fleet. Levasseur, a Frenchman, enlists under him. Levasseur captures a Dutch vessel and hands with the Dutch over and holds Madelon as hostage. Upon this scene enters Captain Blood whose ship had lost sight of Levasseur's vessel in the storm.

"Not so," Levasseur continued himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own—a personal matter. They are French."

"French?" Captain Blood's light eyes stabbed at Levasseur, then at the prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

The prisoner answered for him. "I am Henri d'Ogéron, and this is my sister."

"D'Ogéron?" Captain Blood stared. "Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is my father."

"The salute preserve us now! Are you quite mad, Levasseur?"

Captain Blood sat down on the cask that Levasseur had lately occupied, and looked up blandly. "I may inform you, to save time, that I heard the captive prisoner that you made in this city and this gentleman, and I'll also remind you that we sat under articles that admit no ambiguities. You have fixed their ransom at twenty thousand pieces of eight. That sum then belongs to your crew and mine on the proportions by the articles established, but what is far more grave is that you have conserved from me this part of the prizes taken on your last cruise; and for such an offense as that the articles provide certain penalties that are something severe in character."

"You do not take her while I live, he cried."

"Ho, ho!" laughed Levasseur unpleasantly. "Then added: 'If you dislike my conduct we can dissolve the association.'"

"That is my intention. But we'll dissolve it when and in the manner that I choose, and that will be as soon as you have satisfied the articles under which we sailed upon this cruise."

"What do you mean?"

"I'll accept the situation as I find it. Yourself you've fixed the ransom of this couple at twenty thousand pieces, and, as I gather, the lady is to be your prisoner. But why should she be your prisoner more than another's, seeing that she belongs by the articles to all of us, as a prize of war? However, I'll not dispute her to you if you are prepared to buy her."

"Buy her?"

"At the price you have set upon her."

"That is the ransom of the man. It is to be paid for him by the Government of Tortuga."

"No, no. You've set their value at twenty thousand pieces, and for that sum you may have them, since you desire it; but you'll pay for them the twenty thousand pieces that are ultimately to come to you as the ransom of one and the dowry of the other; and that sum shall be divided among our crews."

That Captain Blood should dare oppose him with but a dozen followers whilst he had a hundred at his back and call never entered the ruffian's mind. But he did not reckon on the cupidity of his own men. They saw twenty thousand pieces within their reach. Levasseur demanded their oath that he had captured sufficient booty. But Blood would have none of that. "Death lurked always in this desperate business, and he added:

"Then let some one buy the prisoners who has."

"And who do you suppose has it if I have not?"

"I have," said Captain Blood. "You have!" Levasseur's mouth fell open. "You . . . you want the girl?"

Captain Blood drew forth a small bag, twenty pieces poured into his

Heal It!
With Zam-Buk

hand, and Cahusac apprized them as worth the ransom; Levasseur in his anger sprang at Cahusac, and a blow scattered the pearls in the sand. The men dived for them.

Levasseur, his hand on his sword, his face a white mask of rage, confronted Captain Blood.

"You do not take her while I live!" he cried.

"Then I'll take her when you're dead," said Captain Blood, and his own blade flashed in the sunlight.

It was soon over. When, with both lungs transfixed, he lay prone on the white sand, coughing out his raspy life, Captain Blood looked calmly at Cahusac across the body.

"I think that cancels the articles between us," he said.

With soulless, cynical eyes Cahusac and his mates considered the twinkling body of their recent leader. Captain Blood had brought them to find Levasseur guilty of the one offense they deemed unpardonable, the crime of appropriating to himself something which might be converted into gold and shared amongst them all. Whilst still they hesitated, Blood added something to quicken their decision.

"If you will come to our anchorage, you shall receive at once your share of the booty of the Sautelle, that you may dispose of it as you please."

They crossed the island, the two prisoners accompanying them, and later that day, the division made, they would have parted company but that Cahusac, at the instances of the men who had elected him Levasseur's successor, offered Captain Blood anew the services of that French contingent.

"If you will wait with me again," the Captain answered him, "you may do so on the condition that you make your peace with the Dutch, and restore the brig and her cargo."

The condition was accepted, and Captain Blood went off to find his guests, the children of the Governor of Tortuga.

Mademoiselle d'Ogéron and her brother—the latter now relieved of his bonds—sat in the great cabin of the Arabella, whither they had been conducted. He doffed his feathered hat, and came forward to the table.

Lord Julian Wade aboard the Royal Mary

"Mademoiselle," said he in his vain but fluent French, "I beg you to dismiss your fears. Aboard this ship you shall be treated with all honor. So soon as we are in case to put to sea again, we will accept a course for Tortuga to take you home to your father. And pray do not consider that I have bought you. Count it, if you please, a friendly loan to be repaid entirely at our convenience."

Mademoiselle stared at him in unbelief.

"Oh, you are noble!"

Captain Blood sighed. For the whole truth, which he withheld from Mademoiselle d'Ogéron, was that in venturing his life to save her, he had been driven by the thought that the deed must be pleasing in the eyes of Miss Bishop could she but witness it. That affair of Mademoiselle d'Ogéron bore as its natural fruit an improvement in the already cordial relations between Captain Blood and the Governor of Tortuga. It was not difficult then for Captain Blood to recruit able crews, and he might have increased the number of his ships as well, but he decided to hold to the three vessels, which were his—the Arabella, the La Poudre and the Sautelle, which he had rechristened the Elirabeth.

It was with this fleet that he carried out the enterprise against Maracaybo, an enterprise in which Peter Blood's daring was only surpassed by stupidity which almost turned the tide against him and delivered him and his men over to the tender mercies of the implacable enemy, Don Miguel de Esphosa y Valdez, the Admiral of Spain.

Captain Blood had landed at Maracaybo and had found the town empty. Too soon he learned of the trap. Espinosa had put into the narrow neck of the bay with his ships and had bottled the buccaniers in the bay.

A sloop, captured by Captain Blood, was loaded with combustibles and powder and was sailed directly at the Spaniards until the grapeballs held the two like a vice. Then it was set afloat. The Admiral's flagship burst into blaze, and five seamanship and hard fighting with his three ships made Captain Blood master of Maracaybo Bay.

But, when the Spaniards turned tail for shore and he gave chase, the fort which guarded the bay and which had seemed deserted, poured down a raking fire upon him and drove him in mortification and despair to take refuge in the town.

The Spaniards secured themselves in the fort.

With a devil's luck and clear-headed thinking, Captain Blood feinted with preparations for a land attack after he had managed to acquire a large ransom in gold from the Governor of Maracaybo, and, opening a broadside, put the fort in flames. Captain Blood sailed for Tortuga. Don Miguel was left to chew the bitter end of lost opportunity.

Discount Was Worth While

Mark Twain Given Book and Seventy-five Cents

In American book-selling circles it is customary to allow a discount to publishers, authors and persons friends. When Mark Twain once visited a bookshop he chose a book and said to the assistant:

"Now, as a publisher, I am entitled to a discount of 50 per cent. As an author I am also entitled to 50 per cent, and as a friend of the proprietor I should get 25 per cent. Now what's the price of the book and what do I have to pay for it?"

The assistant did some rapid figuring and handing over the book, said: "I guess we owe you 75 cents. Here you are. I hope we may have your further patronage!"—Jugend, Munich.

Meals Served By Electricity

Modern Restaurants in United States Have No Waiters

Electrically served meals are obtainable in some of the modern restaurants in the United States. The diner enters the restaurants, selects his table, notes on the menu the food he requires, drops the menu through a slot in the table, and waits a minute or two. Presently there is a humming noise, and in the centre of the table, on a four-poster tray, appears the food he has ordered. When the menu is slipped into the slot it drops to the kitchen below; the server there attends to his order, presses a button, and the food is on its way to the table.

When the diner has finished his meal he takes the bill, which has also been delivered by electricity, and pays at the usual cashier's desk.

Claims Smallest Dictionary

A copy of the smallest dictionary in the world, as its title page says, is owned by Miss Anna Paulus, 455 4th Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis. She has had it, eighteen years. The book is one inch by one-half inch in size and one-quarter inch thick. It has 354 pages. Contained in it are definitions of more than 12,000 words. It was published in Glasgow, Scotland.

The early bird catches the worm, and that ought to fit the bill.

TIRED OUT ALL THE TIME Nerves Gave Little Rest

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Harrowsmith, Ontario.—"I took your medicine before my baby was born and I feel as if I have been helped by it as much as I was very poorly until I started to take it. I just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would take weak, fainting spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, day or night. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I am doing what I can to publish this good medicine. I lend that little book you sent me to any one I can help. You can with the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound. It will serve to help others."

—MRS. HARVEY MILLIGAN, R. R. No. 2, Harrowsmith, Ontario.

In a recent canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 100,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 said they had been helped by its use. "This medicine is for sale by all druggists."

Five Bushels Per Acre More In Production Is Possible Within the Next Ten Years

F. S. Archibald, director of experimental farms in Canada, told the members of the University Club at Ottawa recently that a five-bushel per acre increased production of wheat in Canada is possible within the next ten years. This would add to the value of Canada's yearly production between 120 and 200 million dollars. It is quite within the realm of possibilities, he said, that within the next 10 to fifteen years, science may increase the value of Canada's agricultural products by from 250 to 200 million dollars a year.

Mr. Archibald also explained that it was possible the output of milk by a single cow could be increased by 1,000 pounds a year. This would mean an added revenue to Canada of fully 60 million dollars a year.

The address was an earnest plea for sympathetic consideration on the part of city men for the problems of the farmer and for the work that is being done in the way of experimentation on scientific lines.

Mr. Archibald said that agriculture is still Canada's seven billion dollar industry, which employs and maintains a little over one-half the population of the Dominion. Indirectly, also, it is responsible for industries and employment of well over 50 per cent. of the remainder of the people. Agriculture yields 2 1/2 times the production of the mines, fisheries and forests of Canada, said the speaker.

Beef and Butter For Orient

Demand For Canadian Products Shows Rapid Increase

Increased demand in the Far East for Canadian beef and butter was evidenced in the heavy consignment of refrigerated cargo which left Vancouver recently for Oriental ports on the Canadian S.S. Empress of Russia. More than 250 tons of these commodities was shown on the ship's manifest.

The big liner took out more than 300 passengers, including a party of eight Shell Oil representatives, en route to the Far East to open new branches of that company in China and the Dutch East Indies.

Alberta Sugar Plant

Construction to Commence at Once on Million Dollar Factory

It has been officially announced that the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company will commence construction at once on a million dollar sugar plant at Raymond and will be ready to erect beet by next October. Six thousand acres of beets, with a production of between 70,000 to 80,000 tons, have been signed up by irrigated farmers on Southern Alberta projects. Two more factories will be erected in Southern Alberta at the Raymond plant proves the success expected.

Titled Ranchers

Descendant of Louis Philippe of France May Locate in Alberta

Southern Alberta is to have another addition to its growing list of titled ranchers, according to report. The Duc de Nemours, a descendant of Louis Philippe of France, it is stated, is sailing in April to visit Lord and Lady Rodney, who have a ranch at Fort Saskatchewan, Alta. It is also stated that the duke expects to acquire a ranch near that of the Prince of Wales in the southern area of the province.

B.C. Pine Seed For Finland

Among the recent shipments of lodge pole pine seed from the Dominion Government's seed extracting plant at New Westminster, B.C., was one consigned to Finland, where an attempt will be made to propagate this species of forest tree. Other large shipments have been made during the past two or three years mainly to the British Government forestry commission in London.

Saskatchewan Poultry Pool

Organization Capitalized at $50,000 Is Formed

Incorporation of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Poultry Producers, Limited, has been effected by the provisional board of directors. The poultry pool is capitalized at $50,000 in 50,000 one dollar shares, and the head office is located at the Farmers' Building, Regina.

The incorporators are: Mrs. Sarah E. Selby, Kerrobert; representing the Farmers' Union of Canada; George F. Edwards, Regina, representing the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association; Mrs. Ida McNeil, Expanse, W.G.A.; Mrs. Bertha Holmes, Asquith, W.G.A.; W. H. Decker, Moose Jaw, S.G.A.; Harry W. Koehne, Davidson, representing the agricultural co-operative associations.

It is expected the provisional board will approve of the final draft of the contract at the next meeting and that a signatory committee will be launched throughout the province early in April. A special poultry and egg marketing bulletin is being prepared by the provincial markets, and co-operation branch for use in the campaign.

A trade mark that will be used on posters and advertising material consists of a chicken stepping out of an eggshell and calling, "Where's the pool?"

Soil Fertility In West

Prairie Soils Lose Fertility at Less Rapid Rate as Time Goes On

Soil fertility investigations conducted by Dr. P. T. S. Smith, Dominion chemist, over a series of years, have proved that western prairie soils which lose fertility at a rapid rate during the first few years of cultivation and cropping, lose fertility at a less rapid rate as time goes on.

The lessons learned from this investigation point conclusively to the necessity of introducing rotation grasses and clovers into farming practice if profitable farming is to be maintained says the Dominion department of agriculture. At the conclusion of his bulletin covering his investigations on this subject, the Dominion chemist points hopefully to the increasing adoption of mixed farming, including dairying and stock raising.

The extension of this practice, Dr. Smith points out, necessarily involves a change of soil management which serves to maintain fertility and tends towards increasing rather than decreasing the grain output of the prairie.

The bulletin covers investigations, particularly at Brandon, Manitoba; Scott, Saskatchewan; and Lethbridge, Alberta.

Fewer Canadians Emigrating

Sharp Falling Off in the Number Going to the United States

A sharp falling off in emigration of Canadians to the United States during the past year, as compared with the previous year, is noted in the returns of the U.S. department of labor. In this connection Senator Reed, of the United States, recently stated that no quota law was needed to apply to the Dominion in view of the smaller immigration. He said the net immigration from Canada for the last six months was 61,000, as against 128,000 the net immigration for 1923.

Good Price For Farm Land

Seventy dollars an acre, the peak price in several years, was paid by a Belgian for a quarter section of improved land near Edmonton. Belgians are buying considerable farm property in this district. A syndicate from that country has purchased Kenneth McLeod's 200-acre farm, six miles west of Edmonton, for $20,000.

Silver Black Foxes In Alberta

More than 1,000 silver black foxes are domiciled on farms in the Calgary area and rabbits from Southern Alberta, where they are unusually plentiful this year, are being brought in by the carload to feed them.

About 90 per cent. of mink and coon skins are of poor quality.

Experimental Stations For Bay Territory

Suggested at Ottawa That Seed be Sent to Port Nelson

The establishment of experimental stations at points on the Hudson's Bay Railway has been urged at Ottawa. Western members expressed the opinion that the district traversed by the 200 miles of Hudson's Bay Railway now in operation had great agricultural possibilities.

R. A. Hoer, Progressive, Springfield, suggested to Hon. W. Matherwell, minister of agriculture, that seed for experimental purposes should be sent to Port Nelson, the terminus of the Hudson's Bay Railway. The production of samples of grain and vegetables grown in that district would act as an aid to immigration.

Mr. Matherwell informed the house that he had been considering the establishment of a sub-station on the Hudson's Bay line. He said Mr. Hoer's suggestion was an excellent one and he would be glad to accept it.

To Help Mining Industry

Its Tremendous Importance to the Dominion Is Recognized

Eloquent assurance of wholehearted support from the governments which they respectively represented was given to mining men of the Dominion in general and of Ontario in particular, by Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of mines for Canada, and by Hon. Charles McCrear, minister of mines for the province of Ontario, in addresses given by them at the banquet which terminated the 27th annual general meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy at Ottawa.

Hon. Charles Stewart assured the members that he ever kept in front of him the duty of calling the attention of those around him to the importance to the Dominion of the mining industry, and its tremendous possibilities in the future.

Making Sugar From Artichokes

Process So Simple It Would Reduce Cost of Product

By a process discovered by experts of the government bureau of standards, sugar cane and beet varieties may be extracted from artichokes. The refining treatment necessary is so simple that, it is said, the cost of manufacturing the product can be greatly reduced. Because of the low expense in cultivating the vegetable and its heavy yield when compared to other sugar-bearing plants, it is believed the artichoke may be extensively employed to provide a great part of the future crop. Lack of means of crystallizing the extract has been a bar hitherto.

Canadian Exports to Germany

Nearly 100 Per Cent. Increase in Past Three Years

There has been a steady expansion in Canadian exports to Germany since the war, according to a bulletin issued by the department of trade and commerce, and during the last three years the rate of increase has been nearly 100 per cent. a year. The imports from Canada for the twelve months ending October, 1921, totalled $21,159,266, as against $12,536,448 and $45,096,097 in the corresponding periods of 1922 and 1923 respectively.

The Many Different Basic Sources of Wealth Which Are To Be Found In Canada

Seized Good Opportunity

Farms Being Prepared For Dairy Community Near Winnipeg

Within 50 miles of Winnipeg a vast dairy community is soon to spring into being. "Spring" is used deliberately, for within two months ready-made farms will be ready for 25 families, and these will be the first of 200 or 400 such homes. The whole project, financed from St. Paul, will include 70,000 acres and will take about $2,000,000. Each settler will have 160 acres, with 20 brokens, a home, a barn, silo and ten cows. The settlers will be from the United States and Europe and will be "hand-picked."

That is opportunity—a dairy community within 50 miles of one of Canada's most progressive cities. Perhaps it is not so much possible. Yet now, it is started, the only wonder is that no one thought of it before. The country is full of such opportunities.—Border Cities Star.

Motive Easy To Understand

Canada Has Reason For Wanting Embargo on Pulpwood

The motive behind the movement for an embargo on Canadian pulpwood is plain. It is, in the main, to provide that the employment and wages incidental to the converting of pulpwood into paper shall go into the pockets of our own workmen, not into the pockets of workmen in the States. It is to prevent the existing condition whereby every carload of pulpwood that crosses the border takes work and wages from labor in Canada and gives them to labor in the States. It is, in a word, to foster the sound policy of developing the resources, the industries of Canada, instead of sacrificing them to the advantage of others. If there is a nation in the world that ought to be able to understand that motive, that nation is the United States.—Ottawa Journal.

Metal Products In Canada

Over 100 Million Dollars Invested in Plant and Equipment

Representing an actual investment of more than 100 million dollars in plant and equipment, 232 establishments in Canada manufacturing products from metals other than iron and steel in 1923, produced commodities having a total selling value in excess of $1,000,000,000 and a value added by manufacturing of more than 45 million dollars, according to a report issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics. The manufacture of electrical apparatus and supplies was the chief industry, having a value of more than $1 million dollars.

Western Flour Goes to Russia

American Flour mills will receive direct business it is expected, from the large order placed by the Russian Government with Canadian mills for more than $12,000,000 worth of flour. The order is to be filled by the Maple Leaf Milling Company, which has a mill at Medicine Hat, and by the Western Canada Flour Mills Company, which has mills at Calgary and Edmonton.

It is one of the outstanding features of Canada that it has naturally about as many different sources of commercial strength as any one country can have, and has also the very decided advantage of being able to bring into commercial play a great variety of basic sources of wealth, says the natural resources intelligence service of the department of the interior. First, it has a remarkable estate in lands suitable for grain growing, stock raising, fruit farming and other forms of husbandry. It has immense forest areas of pulpwood species as well as saw timber. The range of its mineral products is altogether unusual—its waterpowers, are generous in extent, and well distributed. A great area of fertile fresh and salt water fishing grounds, and an abundance of natural wild life, round out the physical estate. Thus nature itself has given to Canadian enterprise about all that any country needs in order to attain commercial strength as well as size.

The net primary production figures for 1922 for each of these broad divisions give some very interesting profiles. In the Maritime group, for instance, in round figures, the showing is as follows: Agriculture, $85,933,000; forestry, $25,328,000; fisheries, $15,506,000; trapping, $250,000; mining, $23,186,000; electric power, $3,621,000. It will be noted that the Maritime provinces, as a group, have been able to draw each of several different classes of physical resources into commercial play on a considerable scale. Agriculture looms up above the other primary industries, but forestry, fisheries, mining and fishing have likewise assumed large proportions.

The Maritime area, as a whole, exhibits an unusual degree of both natural and developed diversity. The basic industries of Ontario and Quebec are, of course, on a larger scale. In this group agriculture overshadowed the other primary industries more heavily than is the case in the Maritime area, but forestry, Quebec and Ontario possess great strength in lumbering and mining, and although fishing is a minor factor, this group presents a new giant in its power-generating industry. Despite the greater predominance of agriculture, the Ontario-Quebec division is obviously one of exceptional variety in basic pursuits. The value of the individual industries is as follows: Agriculture, $626,870,000; forestry, $170,711,000; fisheries, $1,947,000; trapping, $1,225,000; mining, $74,247,000; electric power $6,914,000.

No other form of primary industry approaches agriculture in importance in the prairie provinces. Aside from this, however, nature has made the most notable advance. The figures are: Agriculture, $487,759,000; forestry, $3,508,000; fisheries, $1,484,000; trapping, $4,721,000; mining, $31,385,000; electric power, $9,083,000. Leadership in British Columbia and the Yukon belongs to forest industries. Mining also improves its relative position, and fishing is likewise prominent. Here also agriculture yields first place. In fact, British Columbia draws its commercial sustenance more equally from the several different branches of primary industry than does any other province. No one main industry is overwhelmingly dominant, as will be seen by the following values: Agriculture, $26,018,000; forestry, $52,048,000; fisheries, $18,819,000; trapping, $1,564,000; mining, $20,423,000; electric power, $7,567,000.

The individual figures for the Yukon are: Fisheries, $10,900; trapping, $2,025,000; mining, $1,785,000; electric power, $118,000.

Vancouver Grain Port

Additional storage facilities to care for 1,000,000 bushels of grain are being provided at No. 1 elevator at Vancouver this year, according to a statement made here by R. E. Beattie, harbor commissioner. At the beginning of the shipping season, Vancouver will have accommodation for 7,000,000 bushels of grain, he said.

Soup or Lava?

This does not portray a modern catatonic after a fire. The gentleman, one of the passengers on the "Empress of France," now touring the world, is peering into food containers in a Pompeiiian shop. After all, the Romans did stop to eat while they were building columns, roads and basilicas, and it is suggested that the gladiators could polish off a "hot dog" or two after dispatching the odd lion or Christian.

Is the Welcome Meant for You.

There is always a warm welcome for those who make a practice of paying their bills promptly. The habit once acquired is not easily broken either, as the knowledge that the slate is clean is very wholesome. By comparison with the thought that in ones creditors books there is a record of honestly incurred obligations allowed to go state through lack of attention, it is something to strive for.

It takes courage of a very real order to keep the bills paid. A little money in the pocket creates the desire for new things in most humans and it is hard to resist the temptation to gratify this desire.

To those of us who are in the group who yield to this temptation there is a challenge to fight this temptation and conquer it.

It can be done and the result greatly justifies the effort resolved.
